

Executive Summary

Although there has been a decline in reported cases of political violence and associated human rights abuses compared to election time in March, violations of human rights have not been featuring in insignificant occurrences.

The decline in the above mentioned activities was noted especially in the southern provinces of the country. This is not to say however that human rights abuses have completely dissipated.

As reports indicate, there still are reports of political retribution, that have in the main been perpetrated by supporters of the ruling party, and, to some extent, state organs and supporters of the country's main opposition party, the Movement for Democratic Change (MDC).

Cases involving members of the uniformed forces as perpetrators of human rights violations against perceived and known opposition supporters ostensibly to enforce the controversial clean-up campaign coined Operation 'Murambatsvinda' have increased in most urban areas. There has been a lot of consternation as a result of the increasingly discordant 'mop-up' which has been viewed by some sections as a retributive displacement campaign against urbanites most of whom voted for the MDC in the March general elections.

In the capital city's high density suburb of Highfield for example, TM, a known MDC supporter was on 19 May reportedly assaulted by about a dozen police officers on a clean-up routine in Machipisa for publicly denouncing the government's operation. Also in Mutare Central on Africa Day, it was reported that unidentified police details on a clean-up exercise confiscated basic commodities belonging to CG and MM whom they accused of having voted for the 'wrong party' during the March elections.

Political intolerance is still prevalent as our monitors' reports show. In the Midlands city of Gweru, the MDC has been reportedly caught up on the wrong side of the law in perpetrating acts of human rights abuses. In

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Mkoba 17 on 8 May, M, a female member of Zanu PF was reportedly forced to chant MDC slogans by unidentified MDC activists during a development meeting chaired by James Bwerazuva, the city's executive mayor.

In an unsettling incident in Zvishavane, on 7 May, PD, an MDC supporter had his house set on fire at midnight allegedly by Zanu PF activists. It is said property valued at approximately $750 000 000.00 was destroyed. The said victim suffered burns and was admitted at a local hospital where he was said to be recovering. It was also reported that the police arrested GK, a suspected ruling party activist in connection with the arson attack.

There have been disturbing reports that MDC supporters have launched a wave of terror campaigns against perceived or known ruling party supporters in Mberengwa. For example, in Mberengwa West on the 25th of May, TS, a Zanu PF supporter of Sovelele ward in Tabanyani village was reportedly assaulted by MDC supporters who accused him of supporting the ruling party. Also, in Mberengwa East on 11 May, MM, a Zanu PF supporter of Mnyaka village reportedly received a threatening letter from an MDC youth JB 'advising' him to renounce his Zanu PF membership and join the MDC.

Traditional leaders also continued to be sucked into the political fray either as perpetrators or victims of human rights abuses. In an unbecoming act in Chivi North for occurrence, the Madamombe village headman on the 17th of May reportedly threatened anyone who wanted to attend the funeral of GS, a known MDC supporter with expulsion from the village. It is said as a result GS was given a Mozart-like burial by his two brothers and sister.

The above incidents serve to indicate that political violence and related human rights violations have not been wiped out, despite official statements from the government that they are a thing of the past.

METHODOLOGY

This report is based on reports from ZPP long-term community-based primary peace monitors who observe, monitor and record cases of human rights violations in the constituencies they reside. ZPP deploys a total of 240 community-based primary peace monitors (two per each of the 120 electoral constituencies of Zimbabwe). These monitors reside in the constituencies they monitor. The monitors compile reports that are handed over to ZPP provincial coordinators who head ZPP offices in the ten administrative provinces of Zimbabwe. After receiving and verifying reports from the monitors, the provincial coordinators compile provincial monthly monitoring reports that are used to come up with this report-the ZPP monthly monitoring report.
